SHARING FROM INTERNATIONAL FACULTY & STUDENTS

"I really like the "Wines of the World" course, where we got to taste various wines in the meeting room on the 9th floor with a panoramic view of the campus. It's truly an unforgettable memory! Vietnam is so beautiful, and the food is really amazing. Don't hesitate to go to Vietnam on an exchange program. Remember to study diligently and gain plenty of experiences while you're here!"

Mees, Fabian, Daan and Quinten
Nyenrode Business University
Inbound Semester Exchange Students

"It has truly been priceless to be able to come to Vietnam, to work and more importantly learn alongside the whole VACEP team. I think it is one thing to study issues like adverse childhood experiences from the comfort of your own home, but having the opportunity to speak with community-based organizations and families who have been affected was eye-opening and reminded me of why I was doing this project in the first place."

Veronica Zellers
Cornell University
Inbound Student

"I had a great time. I'm definitely going to tell the first-year students next year that this is a great opportunity. I think especially for anyone who's interested in it. Working internationally or doing medical education work, this is such a unique opportunity to work in a brand new medical school, so I'll certainly encourage my classmates to come here if they're interested."

Daniel Hartman
University of Pennsylvania
Internship Student

"The students, faculty, and staff at VinUni were wonderful to work with: filled with enthusiasm for joint research and discussions with our students, they ensured that we had access to amazing sites, people, and experiences. They also met our desires for a meaningful learning and research experience sustained over the ten days."

Prof. Yves Tiberghien
University of British Columbia
Faculty lead for the UBC Go Global research seminar in Vietnam

"The concept of excellence resonates deeply with us, and through our interactions with your staff, students, and facilities, we are convinced it is a cornerstone of what you do here, something we aspire to achieve as well."

Professor Charles Arcodia
Griffith University
Faculty lead for Griffith Business School Study tour program in Vietnam

SHARING FROM INTERNATIONAL FACULTY & STUDENTS

"One of the major valuable experiences during the course that we had is the field trip where we went into the city center with Prof. Doanh, VinUni and HUST students to look at what's going on in Hanoi, figuring out what the current issues that the locals have, because as our goal is to problem-solve, we want to figure out what the exact problems we can address for the locals, rather than just having a general view of the situation."

Christopher Brasil
New York University
Inbound Short-term Student

"From my exposure with the classes taught in VinUni, I can say that the classes in VinUni were significantly more engaging. When you have a teacher who is dedicated to a smaller number of students, the ratio is more of a classroom, you'd really feel engaged, you feel like it's a conversation. And when you leave the class, you feel like you've learned without actually having to focus because the focus is always there."

Rani Mahassen
University College London
Inbound Short-term Student

"The hands-on approach inspired me to think outside the box and gain a deeper understanding of how robotics and automation are intricately integrated into various industries. Additionally, the field trips and expert insights further fueled my passion for robotics."

Max Tseng
The Hong Kong University of Science and Technology
Inbound Short-term Student

"The three words to describe this experience are: fun, balanced, and eye-opening. It's fun because I participated in many activities with my friends. It's balanced because it was not just playing but a good mix of work as well. And It's eye-opening because I experienced and learned a lot about Vietnamese culture."
